Grant received for Seminar of Tribal Research and Training Institute. (TRTI)

About Project on Capacity Building & Skill Development Programs for Tribal Communities in Maharashtra

The Centre for Emerging Economies at MM's IMERT has received grants of Rs. 25.34 lakh from Tribal Research & Training Institute (TRTI), Government of Maharashtra to conduct various research projects and carry out capacity building & skill development programs for the members of tribal communities in Maharashtra.

These projects aim to benefit around 3000 tribal people directly to provide them sustainable livelihood in a span of two years. It is targeted at honing the prodigious skills of these communities imbibed in their rich primordial art & culture and taking them to the national & international markets.

The students of our post graduate courses would be working on it. The students would be exposed to field work & conduct empirical studies to develop a market oriented business model. This would offer our students to understand the intricacies of society as well as the business. The first visit of our students to tribal area in Palghar District of Maharashtra is scheduled in second week of January 2020 to conduct studies.

About Centre for Emerging Economies at MM's IMERT

The Centre for Emerging Economies (CEE) at MM's IMERT was inaugurated by the hands of Hon. Dr. Pami Dua, Member of Monetary Policy Committee in the year 2019. Padmabhushan Shri. Madhav Gadgil is the 'Honorary Advisor' of the Centre.

It is envisioned as a liberating space with no disciplinary boundaries for the conduct of research, projects, academic experiments, interactions, events and publications. It is dedicated to conduct empirical interdisciplinary studies in the allied domains of economics concerning to the contemporary issues. Focusing on India and its intricacies that are diverse from the rest of world, the center strives to instil a broader perspective to its students through a host of research activities.

Few of the studies/projects underway:

- ✚ Social Impact Project on Socioeconomic Development of Tribal Community in Palghar District (of Maharashtra): The center has recently received a grant of INR 25.34 Lakh for taking up study and developing a business model for providing a sustainable livelihood to tribal communities in this region. The project thus started as 'pilot project' for this year is to be expanded to cater other (tribal) districts in Maharashtra.
- ✚ Empirical study of present state of auto industry in Pune and their remedies - The study limits to understand the causes and possible actions that can be taken up at the policy level to address the issues pertaining to this industry.
- ✚ Comparative study of stress as a dysfunction among organized & unorganized sectors - This study taken up by some of our students is to be further extended to profiling both these sectors. The study is carried out under the guidance of some of the psychologist in the city.
- ✚ A study of markets from the lenses of behavioral economics – A group of students working on this project are keen to give their assessment of markets to industry in a form of a Working Paper.

SPRINGER NATURE

Dear Shriram Nerlekar,

We are pleased to inform you that the following book(s) has been handed over to the royalty department in preparation for payment:

Advances in Finance &amp; Applied Economics

In order to process your payment(s), a new Springer Nature financial account number, 1510-0000392475, has been created for your publication with Springer Nature Singapore Pte Ltd. This number should be mentioned in any further communication regarding your payment(s).

It is possible that you already have a financial account number related to previous publications. This could result in separate statements and/or payments where your respective financial account number will be mentioned.

To make the payment specified in your publishing agreement, we require specific information from you. We need this information to ensure proper delivery of your royalty statement and/or payment and to comply with local tax requirements/reporting.
